

Nifty Outlook

Markets traded volatile for yet another day but managed to end higher. After the initial uptick, the benchmark hovered in a range for most of the session but sustained recovery in the last one and half hours aided the index to close around the day's high. Consequently, the Nifty index settled above 14,600; up by 0.8%. The market breadth too was inclined strongly on the advancing side. Mostly sectoral indices traded in the tandem wherein pharma outshined the others.

We feel the timely intervention by the apex bank has relieved the participants to some extent amid the prevailing uncertainty. However, it failed to trigger a decisive move in the benchmark indices and we might see further consolidation. On the flip side, there's no shortage of trading opportunities on the stock-specific front so participants should align their positions accordingly while keeping a check on leveraged trades.
