

Nifty Outlook

Markets ended higher in a volatile trading session, taking a breather after the recent decline. After the flat start, the benchmark oscillated in a narrow range and finally ended closer to the day's high. Meanwhile, sectoral indices traded mixed wherein recovery in FMCG, IT and select financial majors helped the index to close higher while a sharp decline in metals, PSU banks and media pack capped the upside. On the flip side, the broader indices, midcap and smallcap remained under pressure and ended lower in the range of 2.2-3.1%.

We feel it's just a pause after the sharp decline and participants should look for shorting opportunities in case Nifty witnesses any rebound towards the 15,550-15,700 zone. For cues, the performance of the global indices and crude movement will remain in focus.
